RED RICE'S.

PROCLAMATION.

RED RICE'S — SUNDAY, FEB. 21.

Whereas, for good and sufficient reasons, it has become absolutely necessary for Red Rice to reduce stock on hand. Now, therefore, a due regard for the opinion of our many friends and customers makes it desirable and wise for us to give some reasons for why a business that has been from its inception constantly growing larger should now take a step the other way. Firstly, then, our stock of furniture and household goods has grown to immense proportions: so large that it takes much room to display it, as our margin of profit is small, and large rooms are expensive. Under the present arrangement we are losing instead of making. It, therefore, becomes necessary for the smaller stores in a cheaper locality. We have thosen the latter plan, as our rule has been from the beginning to sell good goods cheap, Again, in the hurry of a thriving business, extra good bargains being offered we bought rather too freely of many kinds of goods, giving our obligations for the same. Those are not offered or meet them we must have money. We have no other resources, except to get the same from our goods. In order to sell a large quantity of goods quickly we freely realize that we must offer extra inducements to the buyer. Low prices on good goods force the selling. We, therefore, have gone through our entire secrifice part of our goods than all. Our friends, and they are many, are, with ourselves, proud of our rapid growth. We would rather sacrifice part of our goods than all. Our friends, and they are many, are, withourselves, proud of our rapid growth. We would rather sacrifice part of our goods than all. Our friends, and they are many, are, withourselves, proud of our rapid growth. We would rather sacrifice part of our goods than all. Our friends, and they are many, are, withourselves, proud of our tapid growth. We would rather sacrifice part of our goods than all. Anti-Hill Protest Tabled by th State Committee - Cleveland Men Not in the Convention -A Bolt Organized.

ALBANY, Feb. 22.—|By the Associated Press.] Sunshine and the booming of cannon opened the convention day, and such crowds as filled the streets were never before seen in this city. At 10 o'clock a great mob surged about the State Committee headquarters where the Grace-Anderson committee was to make its formal kick. Mr. An derson, on entering the room, was rec ognized by Chairman Murphy, and explained the nature of their appointment and the reason for their visit. Copies of the action of the Cooper Union meeting, he said, had been sent to each member of the State Committee before they were here to ask for an answer.

Chairman Murphy said he had not

A copy of the communication was then read, whereupon Mr. Cockrain asked if the Cooper Union meeting was held pursuant to a call issued by a committee assembled at the office of Mr. Fairchild. Fairchild.

Mr. Anderson said that the meeting was held in answer to a call numerously signed, and that he did not think there was such a meeting at Fairchild's office.

Mr. Cockran moved that the protest and resolution be received and laid on the table.

the table.

Mr. Grady said, in his opinion, it was the original purpose of the protestants at their first meeting to protest against calling the convention too late, and that the plan was changed because it was called too early to suit them. Now Mr. Anderson came here for the purpose of having them consider this as a serious proposition.

William R. Grace said he had never William R. Grace said he had never heard of a meeting being held protesting against an early or late convention. He took part in this committee with the understanding that it should not be a protest against the candidacy of any person, but against the calling of a convention at this time.

Mr. Cockran's motion to table the resolution was carried unanimously and the "kicking committee" withdrew.

DOBINSON & VETTER, 214 S. Broadwway.

"We were treated as we expected," said they, "and we will hold a meeting this afternoon that will astonish these people."

From the scene of the kick the crowd poured to the convention hall, which was abundantly decorated with red, white and blue bunting.

Chairman Murphy called the conven-tion to order and Judge Beebe was escorted to the chair as temporary pre-siding officer. His speech was warmly received, but the greatest applause was accorded his reference to Hill, under whose leadership the Democracy of the whose leadership the Democracy of the State never lost a battle. Secretary de Freeze called the roll of the conven-tion, and the names of prominent Dem-ocrats were greeted with wild applause. Contesting delegations were present from the Fourth Albany District, Sec-ond Chautanqua and First Oswego dis-tricts. First resolutions were adouted tricts. The report of the Committee on Res lutions was then read as follows: clutions was then read as follows:

The Democratic party of New York renews its pledges of fidelity to tariff reform and to the Democratic faith and traditions as affirmed in the national platforms from 1877 to 1888, as well as in the State platforms concurrent with the opening of Gov. Tilden's and the close of Gov. Hill's long, thrice-approved and alike illustrious service in the chief magistracy. The State platform of 1876 is epitomized, and the document continues:

form of 1876 is epitomized, and the document continues:

We now, as then, steadfastly adhere to the principles of sound finance. We are against the coinage of a silver dollar which is not of the intrinsic value of every other dollar of the United States. We therefore denounce the Sherman silver law under which our silver output is dammed up at home as not only a false pretense, but an actual hindrance to a return to free bimetallic coinage, as tending only to produce a change from one kind of monometalism to another. We therefore unite with the friends of homest money everywhere in stigmatizing the Sherman progressing silver-basis law as no solution of the gold and silver question and as a fit appendage to the subsidy and bounty swindle, the McKinley worse-thanwar-tariff, Blaine's reciprocity humbug, the squandered surplus, the advancing deficit, the defective census, falsined representation and revolutionary proceedings of the billion-dollar Congress, all justly condemned by our people. The great uprising verdict, which was renewed this year, will empower Democratic statesmen to guide the people's councils and execute the people's red, with proud the platform recalls with proud memory the infarithy and decrease of ocument continues:

the people's councils and execute the people's will.

The platform recalls with proud memory the inflexibly sound finance of Gov. Tilden, "who led the Democratic party in pushing on the compulsory Republican advance to current coinage redemption." It also refers with grateful pride to the inflexibly sound finance of Gov. Hill, who, "by efficient economy, has accomplished the practical extinction of the State debt, has faithfully urged the nation's release from unjust taxation," and likewise, "with a statesman's energy and true foresight of the 70-cent dollar pushing for birth in the body of the Shermam silver law, has taken up the people's cause, has assailed Republican degradation of silver money and led the advance of the Democratic party in New York to that solid ground of high justice upon which they stand today without discord or division, demanding with him that every dollar coined in these United States shall be the equal of every other dollar so coined, and demanding redress of their present shameless inequality." The platform adds:

shameless inequality." The platform adds:

The Democrats of New York point to the nomination of Hill to the office of President as a fit expression of Democratic faith and tradition and of our settled purpose to rescue this perverted Government from the clutch of autocrats and plutocrats; from a spendthrift administration; from excessive taxes and debased money. The delegates selected by this convention are instructed to present to the National Democratic Convention the name of David B. Hill, a Democrat who has led his party from victory to victory for seven successive years, and who has never known defeat, as a candidate for President of the United States. The delegates are further instructed to vote as a unit.

sented him to the audience in these words:

I present to you, gentlemen of the convention, the Young Hickory of Democracy, our next Presidential candidate, David B. Hill.

Then came more cheers, and when the noise finally subsided sufficiently Senator Hill spoke at considerable length.

HILL'S SPEECH.

He thanked the gentlemen of the onvention for the unanimous vote which made known their approval to the authorized representatives of the Democracy of the country and which will be recorded in the annals of the nal convention. "The reawakening of the Democracy all over the land," he said, "is a most auspicious sign of the times. All our troubles, all our dangers at this very hour, after so many years of Republi-can rule, flow from unconstitutional leg-islation by the very men who sit in shiv-ering fits over what the Democracy will do with power. The Democratic party is ong whose creed has ever been a strict interpretation of the Constitu-tion and the confinement of the Government to a few specific granted powers. He commended these contrasted facts to his fellow-countrymen for meditation. The Republican party neither trusts The Republican party neither trusts the people nor obeys them. It now requires another upheaval at the ballot-box like that of 1890 to be convinced that the wicked work of the billion-dollar Congress must be repealed and the people's will obeyed. "We are advancing," said he, "to a final renewal of the Nation's verdict on the mad, insensate reign of autocrats and plutocrats, whereby their verdict, now scoffed at, shall have efficient execution in the election of both branches of a Federal Congress and a Federal Executive obedient to the sovereign people's will. The Sherman silver law transforms the Federal coinage power of silver and gold into an instrument for the gradual expulsion of our gold, for the establishgold into an instrument for the gradual expulsion of our gold, for the establishment of an exclusive basis and the permanent reduction of every American dollar by 80 per cent., or more, below the level of its true value, during the whole period of our free bimetallic coinage from 1792 to 1873."

Thraing his attention to the tariff.

Turning his attention to the tariff, Turning his attention to the tarif, the Senator said:

The cause of tariff reform has lately made great practical advance. Secretary Manning, in his report of 1886, advised Congress to begin practical tariff reform by a single act—an act for free wool. One year later the Secretary's report was "writ large" in the message of the President. Now, five years later, one of our most enlightened economists, David A. Wells, writes to the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee that the path of progress which Secretary Manning blazed first and alone is the true path. It is a maxim of sound policy, better fitted to win elections than lose them, that it is better to divide into chapters the lessons of a long campaign of education. Abolish whenever the Senator said:

you can one indefensible tax at a time. This is true progress.

The speech was loudly cheered, and at 5:80 p.m. the convention adjourned at the discount of the convention.

In that event you are instructed to take such measures as you might deem well to secure proper representation of the Democracy of this State at the Democratic National Convention, to be held at Chicago, on the 21st of June next. You will now enter upon the work of considering this, adopting such measures that your work of today will itself be such, I believe, that you will meet again before June with countless thousands of your fellow Democrats all inspired with high purpose and high hopes for our beloved party, and then, when we meet again, our trouble will be to find a hall so large that it can hold the hosts of Democrats who come to wish us God-speed. May a blessing rest upon your work. May the result be the triumph of the Democracy May a blessing rest upon your work. May the result be the triumph of the Democracy

E. D. Locke of Buffalo as chairman. He said:

There are times in the history of parties, as in the history of States, when it becomes necessary for good citizens to assert and maintain their rights. Such an occasion now confronts the Democratic party of the State of New York. Its organization, which was created and intended as a means through which the will of the majority could be made manifest and given due effect, has been seized by unscrupulous representatives, mere factions, and used as an instrument not to subserve, but to frustrate, the will of the majority. It arrogantly defies those rules of procedure which, from long and uniform usage, have received the sanction of party law. It represents not the party, but the few who have received or hope to receive political benefit from one ambitious politician. It is self-perpetuating, for it begets its own kind. It relies upon the patience of the people, upon short statutes of limitation for political of fenses, and upon its outcry against anything in the way of attack as a menace to party success.

ood Crops Assured in all Sections of th San Francisco, Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.] The rainfall of the past few days has proved most beneacial to the growing crops throughout almost the entire State. At almost all points north of the Tehachepi Mountins rain has fallen so far this year at the time when needed most, the largest agricultural districts being most highly favored. At Los Angeles, San Diego and San Bernardino the rainfall to date is not up to normal, but no serious results are anticipated from lack of moisture. Rain, it is reported, was needed in those sections a few weeks since, but about the time the people began to talk of a dry season the skies became clouded and down came the rain. A RICH FIND.

Plenty of Silver in an Old Cliff Dwellers'

CREEDE (Colo.,) Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.] Prospector Brandt, while working over Bachelor Mountain, stumbled upon a find which raised him in a moment from comparative poverty to opulence. He had ascended an almost perpendicular wall and was nearly at the top when he noticed a crevice like opening closed by a boulder. He pushed away the stone and found an opening large enough to admit his body. He entered and pushed forward, and after a few steps was within a cavern, the roof of which, vaulted and hanging with stalactites, showed croppings of silver ore; running $10,000 to the ton. This chamber is 50 feet wide and 200 feet large and contains. feet long and contains enough ore of the surface to make Brandt a million aire. Besides silver, the cavern con-tains utensils, skeletons and remains, evidently those of cliff dwellers, but the antiquarian discovery is lost in interest in the phenomenal silver find. Brandt reported the find here and the town, used as it is to reports of big strikes, went wild. Hundreds left for the cliff dweller claim, as it is called, at once. Brandt and his backer, Col. Morton, were offered $100,000 cash for the claim, by a syndicate of California capitalists, but they refused.

MATRIMONY MADE EASY.

souri Farmer Picks Out a Wife at a Poor Farm.
Boonville (Mo.,) Feb. 16.—[Correspondence.] A few days ago the county judges were surprised to receive a request from James Dunlop, a farmer living near Pilot Grove, in this county, asking permission to go to the poor farm and select a wife from among inmates thereof. He said he had a good farm and needed a wife, but did not have time to go about among the women courting, and thought he could get just as good a one from the poor farm as anywhere else. The judges exfarm as anywhere else. The judges examined his ability to care for a wife and found that his statements were true and gave the desired permission. Dunlop went to the poor farm and after looking over the assembled women selected Mrs. Johnson, who has been a resident there for several years, as being the one who would most likely fill the hill.

the bill. He went to Mrs. Johnson and told her that he was looking for a good woman to become his wife and take care of his house for him, and if she was willing he would marry her at once and they could go right home. Mrs. Johnson ac-cepted him on the spot, and the couple cepted him on the spot, and the couple came to town, where the ceremony was performed by the probate judge, and they went to their home in Pilot Grove. Dunlop has since been in town and says that he is perfectly satisfied, and thinks he has found a good wife, even if she did come from the county farm. KILLED ABOUT A WOMAN.

Fatal Shooting on the Pico Ranch.

Brutal Treatment of a Woman the Cause of the Trouble.

An Old Italian Killed by One of His Fellow-Countrymen.

Was Accidental, as He Only Intended to Frighten

Rather a singular shooting affray occurred on the Pico ranch, a few miles from Whittier, last Saturday afternoon, which terminated fatally yesterday

There are several Italians on the ranch working for M. M. Franklin, and one of them, whose name is given as G. Micheletti, lives in the same house with a young woman who is supposed to be his niece. She is known as Teresa Samonti, and is rather a good-looking girl.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of the estate of Henry S, Burton was received at the clerk's office in this city for filing yesterday morning. The proceeding was taken to have the court determine the rights of all persons to the estate of Henry S. Burton and fix upon whom distribution thereof should be made. The court below found that five-sixths of the Rancho Early Saturday morning Micheletti quarreled with her, and drove her out of the house, at the same time striking her several blows. There were several Italians in the yard, and when they saw how Micheletti was treating the girl, they protested, but instead of paying thereof should be made. The court below found that five-sixths of the Rancho Jamul, a tract of 8925 acres in San Diego county, had descended to Maria
A. Burton, Nellie de Pedrorena and Henry H. Burton, and that through the foreclosure of a mortgage executed by these heirs, the plaintiff, Maggie Leach, deceased, had succeeded to the property. The Supreme Court affirms the judgment.

The Supreme Court also handed down an opinion in the case of Morrill et al., appellants, vs. Nightengale et al. This is the case in which certain members of the Milwaukee Furniture Company sought to enforce against Newell Nightany attention to them he followed the girl into the yard and began to beat her again.

At this stage of the proceedings a young Italian named Quartoli came up and one of the old men asked him to take the girl's part, and put a stop to the brutal treatment she was receiving. When the new arrival saw that he could do nothing he rushed into the house and secured a shottun, and when he reached secured a shotgun, and when he reached a point fifteen or twenty feet from the struggling couple, he raised the gun and

The gun was loaded with fine bird-shot, which took effect in Micheletti's head and face. He was taken into 'the house and Dr. Walter Lindley of the Reform School was called in. At first it was believed that the man was not seriously injured, but he died early yes-terday morning.

When I came out Micheletti was still beating the girl, so I raised the gun and fired. I intended to shoot in the air and only frighten him, but I did not raise the gun high enough and the charge entered his head. I then threw the gun away and started for this city, but I thought I would stay all night with a friend, when the officer came and arrested me. GOVERNMENT FOOD TESTS. The Royal Baking Powder Declared Su-perior to All Others.

As a matter of fact, the attention of the State commissioners was first drawn to this matter at their last meeting, and it was then decided to have each commissioner turn in a report of the particular industry under his charge. L. J. Rose, the commissioner for the viticultural industry, will make his report at the next meeting, and the necessary appointment will very probably be made at that time. The fact as to which is the best baking powder in all respects would seem to be established beyond question by the official tests. Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the United States Government to analyze the various baking powders of the mar-ket to determine which was the best 1898, to send their exhibits, as it is thought that even that date will not be too late. Up to this time the viticul-tural industry is the only one that has made any demand either for space or financial assistance from the State comand most economical, after an extended investigation, reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for Government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his exami-

ation of baking powders, and affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after thorough research and a careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is superior to every other. Prof. Mott, in his report, says:

"The Royal baking powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government." "I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tarter, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and its method of prepara-tion, the Royal baking powder is un-doubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public. "HENRY H. MOTT, Ph.D., "Late United States Government Chem

M'NULTY MUST HANG.

Another Supreme Court Decision Against the Condemned Murderer. the defense have made a stubborn fight, but appear to have reached the limit, as will be seen by the following from the San Francisco Chronicle of Sunday:

After a stubborn battle for his life it looks as if John McNulty must hang for killing John Collins four years ago on Second street. The Supreme Court decided yesterday that he is to be punished under the law as it existed at the time of the commission of the crime of which he wan convicted, and that under this view the act of March 31, 1891, is constitutional because not intended to apply to past offenses, but to be prospective only in its operation.

McNulty's case is one of the most notorious in the legal annals of the State. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged for his crime. He appealed to the Supreme Court and lost. Then the Legislature amended the law and provided that all executions must thereafter take place in the prison at San Quentin, under the jurisdiction of the warden. Again McNulty appealed to the Supreme Court, claiming that by the adoption of the new law he could not be punished. The Supreme Court set aside its judgment of affirmation and ordered an argument on the question. When it was over McNulty had lost once more. Nothing daunted, his attorney asked for a rehearing. The court had stood four to three on the question, and the murderer's appeal was heard. The difficult problem was presented in every phase, a new and important element was introduced and it has been declared that McNulty must hang.

Upon the first argument the Supreme court decided the new law heard. The attention of the Supreme Court was called to section 329 of the Political Code as constitutional; now it decides it unconstitutional in the important element was introduced and it has been declared that McNulty must hang.

Upon the first argument the Supreme court decided the new law heard. The attention of the Supreme Court mas called to apply to past offenses or as intending to allow past offenders to escape; but construing the new law to a serious past offe

Supreme Court finds that section 320 does contain a saving clause and so decides. It quotes the section and argues at length that it fulfills every requirement of the case. Similar statutes to prevent the miscarriage of justice in other States are quoted. That saving clause precludes McNulty's escape under the new law, which in its provisions would be ex post facto so far as he is concerned.

The opinion is written by Justice McFarland and concurred in by Justices Paterson, Sharpstein, Garoute and Chief Justice Beatty. Justices Harrison and De Haven dissent.

Carroll Cook, attorney for McNulty, de-clares that the case is not yet ended, and that he will carry it to the United States Supreme-Court. He has thirty days in which to take such a step.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

Two Pleasant Social Events—The Boys, School Enterprise.
There now seems to be a likelihood hat the scheme for the boys' school on Euclid Hill may fall through. The pa-pers were all drawn up and a reasonable deposit made, but the parties now complain that expected remittances have not arrived and that they will probably be compelled to forfeit what has already been paid Mr. Schenck to secure his house for a school building The matter will, in any event, be defi-nitely settled in a day or two.

Last night being that of a holiday, the new lodge of Good Templars did not hold their meeting for election of officers, as was at first announced. Work on the decorations for the citrus fair to be held in Hazard's Pavilion one week, beginning March 2, is being pushed by the management of the big show. The construction of the canopy which will form the roof of the building is an enormous undertaking. Car-loads of ivy will be consumed and an immense amount of labor is involved in twining the green about the wire net-ting. The work is being done in Mc-Lain's Hall, adjoining the Chamber of Commerce exhibit-room. Wagonloads of ivy were donated yesterday, and there is not half enough to carry out ing. The principal business to come before the committee is the allotment of space in the gallery and to some of the smaller localities. Applications for space are coming in from all quarters, and the building is far too small to allow exhibitors the space asked for. Charles F. Eaton, who is in charge of the Santa Barbara display, writes to the secretary of the fair that his people are satisfied with the space assigned them, but would like more, if possible to attain it. Santa Babarba will have a very large and attractive display. An immense amount of fruit and a large number of plants of many varieties have been secured, and although the committee placed the limit at one carload Mr. Eaton writes that they will bring down more.

Eaton writes that they will bring down more.

The organization of the Coast line display is progressing favorably, and may be regarded as almost a fixture of the fair. It is Mr. Denker's design to have the display made up of the products of the section lying between Newport and Ventura and from the Sierrasto the sea combined in a continuous exhibit. He has arranged—for a meeting of orchardists, and will no doubt succeed in carrying his scheme through.

Cahuenga will be well represented. A large number of entry blanks were sent to the growers of that bustling valley yesterday, and a large percentage of orange-growers will be in.

Heretofore California oranges have been judged according to the Florida scale, which is not at all adapted to testing the home product. Ferneiff, while being a play with its scenes laid in war times, has but little of a martial character in it such as makes Shemandoah spectacular and stirring, but its incidents are of sufficient interest to keep the audlence's attention close and constant, there being enough comedy to lighten up the tearful passages that the leading players exploit with melodramatic effectiveness and not so much as to disturb the play's real object as a tear-compeller.

Sara Stevens as "Maida," an Irish servant, is also clever, and the children, Laura Crews and little Irene, serve to make the play realistic and interesting. Arthur Livingston plays a juvenile part with much dash, but talks too rapidly and is rather too prolific of gestures. The others of the cast are passable. Ferneliff will be repeated tonight.

Mme. Helen Parepa was plainly not in her usual voice. Her attack of the first song, the aria from Lukme, was bad. Many of her tones sounded worn and there were indications of nervousness, but through the ephemeral accidents showed the marked purity and clarity of her voice, and her closing phrases had all their usual sweet and gentie charm. In the waitz song the execution was defective, but even here the single tones had a youth and freshness like that of the singer's charming self.

Herr Joseph Rubo added another to the series of little triumphs that have been quietly but fairly won by him. In a song so full of Spanish fervor as the toreador's from Carmen he was less successful than in those of more seriousness, but the singing of Schubert's "Wanderer' left nothing to be desired. It was a thing of beauty, reserved. sincere, pathetic and strong. The audience, otherwise so chilly, meted before Herr Rubo's voice and demanded more and yet more.

After the concert the audience holding associate member's cards were invited to the Hollenbeck Café, where a merry time was spant over the long tables.

Gen. Alger and Gov. McKinley Speak at a Detroit Banquet.

Senator Dolph's Eloquent Defense Republican Institutions.

Harrison Addresses the Daughter of the Revolution at Washington East and West.

By Telegraph to The Times. DETROIT, Feb. 22 .- [By the Associated Press. | The annual banquet of the Michigan Club, celebrating Wash ington's birthday, brought together eading Republican politicians from all parts of this State and from many other States. It was stated that the banque was not given for the purpose of for warding the interest of dential candidate. Particularly was it denied that there was any intention to boom Alger, and it was asserted that the sole object was to kindle the enthusiasm of the Republicans of the State for the party nominee, whoever he may be. The banquet was held in the rink, a great barn-like structure, whose inherent ugliness was hidden away under folds of artistically draped bunting and portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Grant and others. Covers were laid for 1200 persons at tables upon the main floor, while upon the platform alongside, under a brilliant canopy, were the speakers and guests of Gen. Alger introduced Congressman

Burrows to deliver the address come, and in doing so referred to "Mich-iganizing" by Democrats, and declared that in November Michigan would elect a Legislature that would restore the legislative districts to proper shape and elect a Republican successor to Senator Stockbridge. Burrows said that the task of wel

A LETTER FROM BLAINS. Gen. Alger spoke with regret of the absence of J. S. Clarkson, who is detained in North Carolina by illness, and proceeded to read a letter of regret from Mr. Blaine. Mr. Blaine, after ex-pressing regret, said:

I cannot refrain from sending a word of good cheer on the prospects of the Republi-can party. In all leading measures relat-ing to the industrial and financial interests of the people we are strong and growing stronger. On the contrary our opponent are weak and growing weaker. They are stronger. On the contrary our opponents are weak and growing weaker. They are divided; we are united; if we do not win it is our own fault. We will be justly censurable, with such great measures involved, if every Republican does not feel that he is appealed to personally and that victory in the election depends on him.

When Gov. McKinley was introduce a storm of applause arose. He spoke to the toast, "Protection as a National to the toast, "Protection as a National Issue." He began by saying that whenever anything is to be done in and for the country the Republican party must do it. This has been true for thirty years, beginning with Abraham Lincoln. He continued:

Not one page of the present tariff can be repealed in ten years. At the present rate the present Congress cannot repeal it in twenty-five years. Morrison tried and disappeared from Congress; Mills tried it and lost the Speakership; Cleveland started out to shear that sheep and came backs shorn, and now Springer is trying it. You can't make wool tree on the sheep's back and taxit on our backs. Protection must be for all or none. No man or woman in Michigan knows of the tariff as a burden, but every one of them knows it as a bleasing.

The speaker declared that protection was the national policy, because when free trade and protection were the issue before the people protection had always won. It might be be true that withou protection some things would be cheape for a time, but in the end it would be a the price of human degradation, and nothing was cheap at that cost. He added:

After making a fitting allusion to the memory of Washington, Senator Dolph proceeded to discuss the tariff question, which, he said, is the all-absorbing question which divides the two great question which divides the two great question which divides the two great political parties today and upon which, it becomes more and more evident, the next Presidential contest will be fought. "The importance of the tariff question to the people of the United States," said Dolph, "cannot be overestimated. The Democratic party, which in both branches of Congress at the last session was committed to the free coinage of was committed to the free coinage silver, is retracing its steps, and the party leaders and organs are endeavor-ing to eliminate the silver question from politics. But upon the tariff question there is no division of sentiment

The party believes that Congress has power, under the provisions of the Federal Constitution, and that it is its duty to impose duties upon imports for the purpose of restraining importation into this country of products of human industry from abroad, and thus protecting American industries from the disastrous competition of the cheap labor countries. When the condition of the treasury permits it, believes that all such articles as are not made or grown in this country should be put on the free list and made as cheap as possible.

Dolph paid a high tribute to the success of the McKinley law, and said the reciprocity provision of that law had proved of great value. In conclusion Senator Dolph warmly enlogized President Harrison's administration and expressed the opinion that the people will again, as in 1868, lay uside all differences of opinion upon minor matters and by their verdict in November again

It was merely a growl over the division of spoils, and the Republican party would not profit much. The municipal problem, Mr. Fassett said, was one of the most complex politicians had to the most complex politicians had to grapple with. Nearly a dozen national organizations were represented, and in the talk among the delegates the question, could th Prohibitionists be pacified and dragged into fold with a declaration in favor o nationalizing the liquor traffic, was one of the subjects most eagerly discusse by those assembled. Probably the liveliest topic was whether the Leland Stanford men would succeed in what was said to be their secret purpose, forcing a nomination of a third Presidential candidate before the Democratic or Republican National Conventions are held. Two prominent Kansas men are uuderstood to be quietly circulating among the delegates, pulling every possible string in this direction for Stanford. The idea was that should this big Californian be made the third party's standard-bearer he would stand a chance of indorsement in the other national bodies later on. Had a bombshell exploded this after noon in the midst of the Industrial the third party people one iota more than did a motion made by Secretary Hayes, of the Knights of Lagor, late in the afternoon. A curious series of events led up to it. B. F. Terrill of Texas had been selected to call the conference to order, and during the wel coming addresses and throughout the speeches of Polk, Powderly and Don-nelly he tenaciously retained the chair, no move being made even to effect a temporary organization. At the con-clusion of the addresses Hayes junped up and moved that Acting Chairman Terrill appoint the regular committees, a proceeding which would practi-cally have given the Texan entire charge of the convention. The third party men were dumbfounded and convention was immediately a scene of uproar. Gen. Considerable merriment was elicited when Terrill went right on as a matter of Terrill went right on as a matter of course, acting as chairman, as though there were no such thing as temporary or permanent organization. Terrill, it was generally understood, does not favor an immediate third party Presidential nomination, and it began to look as if he had concluded to shape things a bit while he held the reins. This impression deepened when he proceeded to read a typewritten document urging the convention to confine its demands to land, transportation, taxation and money, leaving moral reforms till they had more time. This would leave the prohibition issue out in the cold, and toward the rear of the stage among the ward the rear of the stage among the distinguished guests could be seen Miss Frances Willard's features quickly shaded by a frown of portentious pro-portions, while "third party or bust" delegates throughout the hall gave equal signs of dissatisfaction. Presi-dent Polk, of the National Alliance, dent Polk, of the National Alliance, was introduced by Terrill and the announcement was made that Polk's, address would be followed by one from Powderly and another from Donnelly. At the mention of these three possible Presidential candidates the convention manifested much interest.

President Polk said that the farmers had seemabled here to perform a sol, manifested much interest.

President Polk said that the farmers had assembled here to perform a sol ma and responsible duty. On Wall street and boards of trade money was at 1½ per cent. In many small towns in the West money was from 10 to 20 per cent. This had to be righted. The farmers paid over 20 per cent. of the taxes, and if money can be borrowed in New York on cotton and wheat at 1½ per cent. why can not the same thing be done in the West? He compared the gain in the wealth of the New England States, as compared with the producing States of the West and South as 5 to 1 of the former against the latter. He entered a solemn protest against these unequal conditions. In closing Polk said:

We want relief, we demand relief; and I repeat now what I have repeated from Maine to California, we must have relief if we have to wipe the old parties from the face of the earth.

This was greeted with tremendous applause. Something of an anti-climax was created by some Polk enthusiasts in the gallery flinging to the breeze at this juncture a huge banner inscribed with a quotation from Polk's apparently extemporaneous speech.

Powderly was then introduced and warmly greeted. He spoke of the big bridge from the east side of the river owned by a man to whom every one who wanted to enter St. Louis had to pay a tax. The time had come when the peo-ple would surmount these difficulties, It was not a Powderly nor a Polk, but the people who would remedy this when the time came. Powderly also spoke on the question of restriction of immi-gration. "Years ago," continued Powderly, "when we nominated Gen. Weaver of Iowa."

A great burst of cheers greeted the mention of the Greenback Presidential mention of the Greenback Presidential candidate. Weaver beamed smilingly upon the cheering multitude from the platform, but sobered up when Powderly icily warned the convention to cheer not the man, but the principles.

The coming gatherings of Democrats and Republicans, he said, as compared with this convention, would be simply coagulations of unprincipled politicians to divide plunder. He closed with a declaration that throughout the action he had obeyed orders and fought with the sole purpose of maintaining the honor and glory of his country. BAD "SPIRITS."

A Lively Time at a Seance in the South-ern Part of the City.

Another spiritualistic "medium" has come to grief. At least, there has been partial exposure, but whether the partigations remains to be seen.

For some time past the medium in question, who lives in the southern part of the city, has been doing quite a lucrative business in a small way. The charges were very reasonable, and even persons in moderate circumstances could afford to hold communion with the spirit world at the moderate schedule rates. As a consequence the "séances" have been well attended and the "medium" has lived well.

Among those present was a young man and his wife. It is not known whether they are "believers" or not, or whether the materialized "spirit" was too partial to the husband, but, at any rate, the wife suddenly made a grab for the flowing drapery of the spirit, at the same time crying out, "You are a fraud! You are no spirit, you are a live woman."

Gillis is a deputy customnous omcer, appointed by Collector Berry to look after the affairs of the United States along the Mexican line. He was riding around a week ago over his post of duty and met with two little colts, which he supposed had gotten across the line. McCarthy when Vasquez, McCarthy's foreman, ran out and demanded that he stop treading down the grain, the field he was crossing being planted in wheat. Duped by Their Imagina [Irish Times.]

An amusing story, demonstrating the power of imagination, comes from an English cathedral town. For many years half a dozen devout old ladies have been in the habit of going, in fine weather or in foul, to the early morning service in the cold minster. Recently it was decided to warm the church, and the old ladies, with one voice, protested against the innovation. "We shall be sufficated," they declared. "We shall be carried out fainting." One morning when they arrived for their devotions they found half a dozen stoves set up in different nooks and corners of the cathedral. In the course of the service, therefore, three of the old ladies fainted. "We knew how it would be," they afterward said to the dean. But the dean confounded them by assuring them that the new stoves had never been lighted.

BORDER TROUBLES.

Deputy Marshal Jenkins Arrives from Sa Diego with Three Prisoners. Deputy United States Marshal Jenkins arrived from San Diego yesterday morning with three prisoners, Jose Yorba, Vasquez and a man named Burns, under arrest, charged with hav-ing resisted a United States officer. Vasquez's head was bandaged and he appeared to be pretty badly used up.

The story of the arrest is as follows:
Gillis is a deputy customhouse officer, appointed by Collector Berry to look after the thy's book-keeper, and Gillis got into a quarrel.

The end of all this business was that Gillis came to Los Angeles and swore out a warrant against the three men above mentioned and United States Deputy Marshal Jenkins went down to make the arrests.

Mr. Jenkins took Gillis along as a guide. It was night when they reached McCarthy's place, so Mr. Jenkins says, and they learned that Vasquez was asleep in the barn. Jenkins directed Gillis to stand at the door and direct any one who came out to stand and remain under command of the United States Marshal; he went toward the house of the McCarthys to rouse McCarthy and have him deliver up the men. During Jenkins's absence Vasquez heard a noise outside the barn, and, thinking it was some horses, got up and lighted his lantern, opened the barn door and went out. He was confronted on the outside, so Mr. Jenkins said, by Gillis, who exclaimed: "You are the man I want," and proceeded at once to beat Vasquez over the head with a revolver. Vasquez ran away and hid himself in the barn, but when Jenkins returned he was called out. He was profusely bleeding, but was bandaged up and taken to San Diego, where it was found that his skull was cracked,

A TOUGH CITIZEN.

He Amused Himself by Hugging Women on the Street. A decidedly tough citizen will come up for trial in the person of an able-bodied fellow named A. E. Porter in the Police Court this morning.

Porter was making himself decidedly fresh on Spring street last Saturday evening, and for some time he amused himself by hugging every pretty woman without a male escort who passed close enough for him to get hold of.

Finally Officer Walker caught sight of the fellow and made for him. Porter of the fellow and made for him. Porter refused to be arrested, and when the officer placed his hand upon him a desperate fight ensued. Thomas Wilde, the man who went crazy as soon as the police took him in custody for burglary and refused to talk and eat until Tyndall, the mind-reader, got hold of him, has again been heard from. It will be remembered that Wilde was sent to the Agnews asylum. The other day the agent at the Southern Pacific's San Fernando street depot received a letter from Wilde asking for a valise that he left at the depot. The agent notified the de-tectives and they opened the valise and found that Wilde had placed several articles that he stole in this city in it with some of his clothing.

The property is now at the police station and will be returned to the owners upon identification.

The police have learned since Wilde was sent to Stockton that his true name is Thomas Wilde Maclean.

It is said that "Deacon" White, who went broke" in a big Chicago grain deal and began anew on the New York Stock Exchange without a dollar, and with a million dollar debt to pay, has already made a winning. He was on the inside with the recent Lackawanna boom, and one of the heaviest buyers before the prices went up. The creditors who united to give him another chance will probably get their money.

THE San José Mercury, which is one of the most thorough-going and wideawake papers in the State, published last Sunday a special Los Gatos edition, giving that pretty suburb a writeap and illustration which does it proud. The papers up-country are catching on to our Southern California ways of advertising their country, and if they do not succeed in working up a full-grown m, or at least a boomlet, it will not be their fault.

A Washington dispatch says the United States is again negotiating for a coaling station in the West Indies. Naval officers favor St. Thomas, but Denmark's price, $7,500,000, stands in the way. Mole St. Nicolas could hardly be obtained from Hayti at present. Samana Bay is also under consideration. THE New York World is raking the country with a fine-toothed comb to find a Presidential candidate for the Democrats. Its deliberate, double-leaded opinion is that a combination of any of the following names can carry New York and the Nation for the Democrats: Boies of Iowa. Pattison of Pennsylva nia, Palmer of Illinois, Carlisle of Kentucky, Justice Fuller of Illinois, Gorman of Maryland, Russell of Massachusetts, Gray of Indiana, or Abbott of New Jersey. The World scatters too much. It can never hope to bring down Hill with a blunderbuss.

THE insurance companies of the coun try favor a national bankruptcy act as a means of removing, in a great measure, the moral hazards to which they are exposed. Statistics show that man dishonest men on the verge of insolv ency insure their property and set the torch to it because it is the only way presented to get out of debt. A bankruptcy act would open an honorable way of liquidation, and the temp tation to burn for the insurance would be removed. This is a novel argument but it is a strong one, and cannot fai to have an influence on the committees In charge of the proposed legislation.

THE question which several New York papers are now trying to settle is: "Did Mrs. Emma Eames-Story yawn?" Some of the gossips charged that, as she occupied a prominent position in a box listening to the divine strains of Madam Albani, her fine nostrils dilated with scorn, and the sweep of her fan called everybody's attention to a condemnatory yawn which was speedily forthcoming. In, this connection we must not, however, forget to mention the valuable work given the world by Hammond Hall, on irrigation in Europe and California; but which does not touch upon the bulk of new matters given in these volumes of Mr. Flynn, and was of a much more generally descriptive nature.

Ex-Senator Brown of Georgia wrote a labored communication to the Atlanta Constitution to prove that Senator Hill "looms up head and shoulders above any other aspirant." As the sound of the Atlanta cannon booming for Cleveland and the shouts of the Atlanta populace cheering for Cleveland did not appear to have reached the Senator's ears, the Atlanta Journal printed a poll of preferences of twelve of the most prominent Democrats of each county. Cleveland received 849 first-choice votes. Hill The Democracy seems to be verging towards a triangular fight. Hill holds New York, Cleveland has the greater strength in the and many Democrats are looking earnestly for a dark horse to turn up in the West. If Hill gets the nomination there will be a split; if Clevaland gets it there will be a sulk and more knifing in New York; if a Western man gets it-well, he will be defeated. AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

GRAND OPERAHOUSE.—The Grismer-Davies company opened their engagement yester-day, playing Augustus Thomas' comedy-drama, The Biriplar, at the matinée and Ferneliff last night.

The first piece has been seen here before. and was found then, as now, to contain sufficent of the tearful and mirthful in its composition to satisfy the average audience. Mr. Grismer plays the part of the burglar with much spirit, while Miss Davies is as conscientious and painstaking as ever. The lady has the rare faculty of being able to call up real tears at will, hence in the emotional passages of the production her work is unusually effective. The company does not contain any extraordinary talent, but all are quite up to the average of the supporting players that visit us. Little Laura Crews as "Editha" has a very sweet and touching child's part which is cleverly done.

Forneliff, while being a play with its scenes laid in war times, has but little of a martial character in it such as makes Shemandoah spectacular and stirring, but its incidents are of sufficient interest to keep the audience's attention close and constant, there being enough comedy to lighten up composition to satisfy the average audi ers exploit with meiodramatic effectiveness and not so much as to disturb the play's real object as a tear-compeller.

Mr. Grismer has a part that is full of maniliness and action, and he plays it so well as to call forth much applause. Miss Davies is sweet and womanly as "Annie Hewins," and entirely successful in winning her hearers' sympathies in every scene. Scott Cooper makes a very good old man in the part of "Dad Hewins." Sara Stevens as "Maida," an Irish servant, is also clever, and the children, Laura Crews and little Irene, serve to make the play realistic and interesting. Arthur Livingston plays a juvenile part with much dash, but talks too rapidly and is rather too prolific of too rapidly and is rather too prolific of gestures. The others of the cast are passible. MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Los Angeles Theater.—The fifth concert of the Apollo Club was given last night at the Los Angeles Theater to an audienlarge in numbers and chary of applaus
The personnel of the club shows the has once again undergone a change-new faces are seen to be in the majority, and several of the strongest of the old chorus are seen to be missing, notably among the tenors, sopranos and first altos. It was doubties for this reason that Mr. Paulsen attempted so little, and wisely, for while the several light numbers were prettily done, they gave but little promise that the club was fitted for anything more exacting at present. Evidences that the members were still wanting in the unity and sympathy that comes of continued practice together were many, and to do really fine and thorough work the club must be materially strengthened. On the other hand were good signs of sincerity and intention in care of detail, fixed attention to the leader's baton and detached bits here and there of delicate phrasing—marred too often by a sudden crescendo, a pronounced failing of this club's singing from its first concert. That the most intricate number on the programme, Barnby's "Silent Night," was the best its a potent reason for the encouragement of the club, which has bravely survived numerous disintegrations and has begun anew after each, discouragement. The choruses were of an essentially flowing, simple and non-dramatic character, and the three by Pinsuti entirely innocuous,

Mme. Helen Parepa was plainly not in her usual voice. Her attack of the first song, the aria from Lakme, was bad. Many of the tones sounded worn and there were indications of nervousness, but through the ephemeral accidents showed the marked purity and clarity of her voice, and her closing phrases had all their usual sweet and gentic charm. In the waitz song the execution was defective, but even here the single tones had a youth and freshness like that of the singer's charming self, Herr Joseph Rubo added another to the series of little triumphs that have been quietly but fairly won by him. In a song so full of Spanish fervor as the toreador's from Carmen he was less successful than in those of more seriousness, but the singing of Schubert's "Wanderer" left nothing to be desired. It was a thing of beauty, reserved, sincere, pathetic and strong. The audience, otherwise so chilly, melted before Herr Rubo's voice and demanded more and yet more.

After the concert the audience holding associate member's cards were invited to the Hollenbeck Café, where a merry time was spent over the long tables. That settles Senator Stanford's had any. By Telegraph to The Times, DETROIT, Feb. 22.—[By the Associated Press.] The annual banquet of the Michigan Club, celebrating Washington's birthday, brought together leading Republican politicians from all parts of this State and from many other States. It was stated that the banque was not given for the purpose of for warding the interest of any Presidential candidate. Particularly was it denied that there was any intention to boom Alger, and it was asserted that the sole object was to kindle the en thusiasm of the Republicans of the State for the party nominee, whoever he may be. The banquet was held in the rink, a great barn-like structure, whose inherent ugliness was hidden whose inherent ugliness was hidden away under folds of artistically draped bunting and portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Grant and others. Michigan, he said, had always cast its electoral vote for a Republican Pres-idential candidate, and he proceeded to give the list, from 1856 down. When Blaine's name was reached the assemblage broke into a round of enthusiastic applause. His indorsement of the Mc-Kinley law and reciprocity was also warmly greeted.

A LETTER FROM BLAINE. Gen. Alger spoke with regret of the absence of J. S. Clarkson, who is de-tained in North Carolina by illness, and proceeded to read a letter of regret from Mr. Blaine. Mr. Blaine, after ex-pressing regret, said:

I cannot refrain from sending a word of good cheer on the prospects of the Republi-can party. In all leading measures relat-ing to the industrial and financial interests ing to the industrial and financial interests of the people we are strong and growing stronger. On the contrary our opponents are weak and growing weaker. They are divided, we are united; if we do not winit is our own fault. We will be justly censurable, with such great measures involved, if every Republican does not feel that he is appealed to personally and that victory in the election depends on him.

The reading of the letter brought forth another round of applause.

GOV. M'KINLEY HEARD. When Gov. McKinley was introduced storm of applause arose. He spoke to the toast, "Protection as a National Issue." He began by saying that when-ever anything is to be done in and for the country the Republican party must do it. This has been true for thirty years, beginning with Abraham Lin-colu. He continued:

Not one page of the present tariff can be repealed in ten years. At the present rate the present Congress cannot repeal it in twenty-five years. Morrison tried and disappeared from Congress; Mills tried it and lost the Speakership; Cleveland started out to shear that sheep and came backs shorn, and now Springer is trying it. You can't make wool tree on the sheep's back and taxit on our backs. Protection must be for all or none. No man or woman in Michigan knows of the tariff as a burden, but

Senator Dolph of Oregon spoke on "Washington, the protectionist."

After making a fitting allusion to the memory of Washington, Senator Dolph proceeded to discuss the tariff question, which, he said, is the all-absorbing question which divides the two great question which divides the two great political parties today and upon which, it becomes more and more evident, the next Presidential contest will be fought. "The importance of the tariff question to the people of the United States," said Dolph, "cannot be overestimated. The Democratic party, which in both branches of Congress at the last session was committed to the free coinage of silver, is retracing its steps, and the branches of Congress at the last session was committed to the free coinage of silver, is retracing its steps, and the party leaders and organs are endeavoring to eliminate the silver question from politics. But upon the tariff question there is no division of sentiment. There is not protection sentiment enough in that party to create the least dissension in the party councils." In regard to the Republican doctrine on the tariff question, Dolph said:

The party believes that Congress has power, under the provisions of the Federal Constitution, and that it is that to impose duties upon imports for the purpose of restraining importation into this country of products of human industry from abroad, and thus protecting American industries from the disastrous competition of the cheap labor countries. When the condition of the treasury permits it, believes that all such articles as are not made or grown in this country should be put on the free list and made as cheap as possible.

Dolph paid a high tribute to the success of the McKinley law, and said the reciprocity provision of that law had proved of great value. In conclusion Senator Dolph warmly eulogized President Harrison's administration and expressed the opinion that the people will again, as in 1888, lay saids all differences of opinion upon minor matters and by their verdict in November again

Hon. F. T. Greenhalge of Massachusetts spoke on "The Present Duty of the Republican Party." Senator Perkins of Kansas spoke on "Washington, the Farmer Politician." Hon. J. Sloat Fassett of New York spoke on "Municial Reform" and Richard Vates. Jr. of

Fassett of New York spoke on "Municipal Reform," and Richard Yates, Jr., of Illinois on "Young Men in Politics."

Mr. Fassett in his speech denounced Tammany Hall roundly. It was, he said, a wonderfully complete power. He did not attach much significance to the present bolt in New York. It was merely a growl over the division of spoils, and the Republican party would not profit much. The municipal problem, Mr. Fassett said, was one of the most complex politicians had to grapple with. If there was any part of republican government in which the people of this Nation have failed, it was in city government. This was due people of this Nation have failed, it was in city government. This was due chiefly to two things—voting for men who were party nominees, regardless of their fitness for office, and abstention of the best class of citizens from voting. In New York alone 100,000 men of this class refrain from going to the polls.

The Third Party People Evidently in th Majority-A Hard Fight Expe Over the Platform - What the Leaders Say.

By Telegraph to The Times.
St. Louis, Feb. 22.—|By the Associated Press.] It was a conglomerate gathering that met in convention here at 2 o'clock this afternoon to confer or the desirability of a third party. Nearly a dozen national organizations were represented, and in the talk among the delegates the question, could th Prohibitionists be pacified and dragged into fold with a declaration in favor of nationalizing the liquor traffic, was one of the subjects most eagerly discusse by those assembled. Probably the liveliest topic was whether the Leland Stanford men would succeed in what was said to be their secret purpose forcing a nomination of a third Presidential candidate before the Democratic or Republican National Conventions are held. Two prominent Kansas men are uuderstood to be quietly circulating among the delegates, pulling every possible string in this direction for Stanford. The idea was that should this big Californian be made the third party's standard-bearer he would stand chance of indorsement in the other national bodies later on. Had a bombshell exploded this after noon in the midst of the Industrial Conference it could not have surprised the third party people one iota more than did a motion made by Secretary Hayes, of the Knights of Lagor, late in the afternoon. A curious series of events led up to it. B. F. Terrill of Texas had been selected to call the con-ference to order, and during the welcoming addresses and throughout the speeches of Polk, Powderly and Don-nelly he tenaciously retained the chair, no move being made even to effect a temporary organization. At the con clusion of the addresses Hayes jumped up and moved that Acting Chairman Terrill appoint the regular committees, a proceeding which would practically have given the Texan entire charge of the convention. The third party men were dumbfounded and the convention was immediately a scene of purpars. Gen. Weaver the convention was some scene of uproar. Gen. Weaver sprang to his feet, yelled that the motion was out of order and quickly made a motion that the convention proceed a motion that the convention proceed to a temporary organization. Friends of the new movement rallied and carried the motion with a hurrah. The core of the sensation is disclosed when it is explained that the third party men believed, whether justly or unjustly, that a combination had been made between McCune, Livingstone, Hayes and Terrill to down the new party scheme.

If the motion had been carried they say Terrill would have appointed a committee to suit the antis. Appar-ently, however, the opponents of the third party movement are in a hopeless ninority.

Before Benjamin Terrill of Texas

called the convention to order the big hall was lively with discussions of the National Committee of the People's party. Sixty-nine of the biggest guns in the political army were gathered on the stage in Music Hall. The main body of the hall and the galleries were filled with groups of delegates and spec-tators. A delegate from Oregon nad the floor for a time, declaring that the opening gun of the national campaign would be fired by his State and calling for help to carry Oregon for the Peo ple's party.

ated Press | At 2:25 o'clock Terrill called the Industrial Conference to order without the formality of an adiress and caused a smile by announcing that the "congregation" would rise while the proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Basher of Millageville, Ill. Miss Alice Mitchell, of the National Woman's Alliance, then sang the "Star-Spangled Banner," and th udience joined in the chorus. Considerable merriment was elicited when Terrill went right on as a matter of course, acting as chairman, as though there were no such thing as temporary or permanent organiza-ion. Terrill, it was generally understood, does not favor an immediate third party Presidential nomination, and it began to look as if he had concluded to shape things a bit while he held the reins. This impression deep-ened when he proceeded to read a type-mritten document urging the conven-tion to confine its demands to land, transportation, taxation and money, leaving moral reforms till they had more time. This would leave the promore time. This would leave the prohibition issue out in the cold, and toward the rear of the stage among the equal signs of dissatisfaction. President Polk, of the National Alliance,

At the mention of these three possible Presidential candidates the convention manifested much interest.
President Polk said that the farmers

President Polk said that the farmers had assembled here to perform a solemn and responsible duty. On Wall street and boards of trade money was at 1½ per cent. In many small towns in the West money was from 10 to 20 per cent. This had to be righted. The farmers paid over 20 per cent. of the taxes, and if money can be borrowed in New York on cotton and wheat at 1½ per cent. why can not the same thing be done in the West? He compared the gain in the wealth of the New England States, as compared with the producing States of the West and South as 5 to 1 of the former against the latter. He entered a solemn protest against these unequal conditions. In closing Polk

We want relief, we demand relief; and I repeat now what I have repeated from Maine to California, we must have relief if we have to wipe the old parties from the face of the earth.

This was greeted with tremendous applause. Something of an anti-elimax was created by some Polk enthusiasts in the gallery flinging to the breeze at this juncture a huge banner inscribed with a quotation from Polk's apparently extemporaneous speech.

Powderly was then introduced and
warmly greeted. He spoke of the big bridge from the east side of the river owned by a man to whom every one who owned by a man to whom every one who wanted to enter St. Louis had to pay a tax. The time had come when the people would surmount these difficulties, It was not a Powderly nor a Polk, but the people who would remedy this when the time came. Powderly also spoke on the question of restriction of immigration. "Years ago," continued Powderly, "when we nominated Gen. Weaver of lowa."

A great burst of cheers greeted the dention of the Greenback Presidential candidate. Weaver beamed smilingly upon the cheering multitude from the platform, but sobered up when Powderly icily warned the convention to cheer not the man, but the principles.

cheer not the man, but the principles. Ignatius Donnelly next appeared on the rostrum. The coming gatherings of Democrats and Republicans, he said, as compared with this convention, would be simply coagulations of unprincipled politicians to divide plunder. He predicted a wedding soon to occurtat of the Democracy and the Republican party. The ceremony would be performed at the altar of plutocracy. Grover Cleveland and Ben Harrison would act as bridesmaids; the devil himself would give away the bride, and Jay Gould pronounce the benedicdevil himself would give away the bride, and Jay Gould pronounce the benediction. Opinions of delegates are so widely di-versified that unless some parties give up their principles altogether there must of necessity be a row before the platform is finally adopted. Of course it is probable that all parties will make mutual concessions, parties will make mutual concessions, and if such be the case then everything may pass off harmoniously. this meeting occurs upon the anniversary of the birth of him who bore no titled nam or heritage of royalty, but who became the first great ruler of the Republic and who was the first president of the kindred association of the Loyal Legion, "The Society of the Cincinnati."

I was advised by a cranky companion, in this, my first attempt at acting as toast-master, to have something not so old in the way of toasts, and so I sat down in a silence which became tumultuous on account of its folly, to study up something new, but I could not discover the misty spot of a new nebula or the fleecy outline of a new asteroid, and therefore I concluded not to soar to skies where I would be lost in search of rold, and therefore I concluded not to soar to skies where I would be lost in search of bright things I could never find, because I never could think of them, and so, with your kind permission, we will drink in si-lence and standing an old, old toast, the first toast of the evening, dear to every oyal citizen and to every companion, "The resident of the United States, a member of our Order."

Col. J. H. Woodard was then introduced and delivered a carefully prepared paper on the part taken by Gen.

A. McD. McCook at the battle of Stone River, giving the story of his heroic and meritorious services in that great conflict. The paper was based upon official reports and personal observa-tions on the field and was illustrated by the aid of blackboard diagrams. The delivery of the paper occupied some forty minutes and was received with great favor by the companions.

He spoke at considerable length upon the part he took in the battles of Stone River (December 81, 1862, and January 1, 1863,) declaring that for thirty years his lips had been sealed in public regarding his version of the battle. He closed with a declaration that throughout the action he had obeyed orders and fought with the sole purpose of maintaining the honor and glory of his country. His speech was received with great applause.

"The Veterans' Home' was responded to by Judge J. A. Waymire of San Francisco, president of the board of managers of the State Veterans' Home at Yountville. He delivered a serious and dignified speech on this subject of high patriotic interest to all veterans of the war as well as to the citizens of the country which these veterans saved by their valor, endurance and self-sacrifice.

At this point the chairman called attention to a series of official War De-partment Maps of the Battlefields of the Rebellion, presented for the inspec-tion of the companions by Col. H. G.

"Marching through Georgia" was then sung with all the old abandon and

The hosts responded by drinking the health of the visiting companions, and in turn greeting them with three rousing cheers.

Gen. McCook then sang his favorite old song, "Aransas Bay," and sang it with splendid effect. The song evoked the greatest enthusiasm and the keenest satisfaction on the part of the listeners.

The last of the regular toasts, "The Signal Corps," was then responded to by Maj. George A. Fisher of San Francisco. During the course of his speech he talked about a variety of things, in-cluding George Washington, climate, oranges and bananas. Some general talk followed and the

A Lively Time at a Seance in the South ern Part of the City. Another spiritualistic "medium" has come to grief. At least, there has been a partial exposure, but whether the par-ties interested will continue their inves-

A few nights ago a "séance" was held, at which it had been announced that there would be genuine "materialization," and visitors would be permitted to talk directly to departed friends and relatives. Of course such an announcement brought out a large attendance, and the rooms were crowded. The lights, were turned down, and, after the usual foolery was gone through with, the "medium" went into a "trance," and in a short time a very healthy-looking female spirit, mitted to talk directly to departed friends and relatives. Of course such an announcement brought out a large attendance, and the rooms were crowded. The lights were turned down, and after the usual foolery was gone through with, the "medium" went into a "trance," and in a short time a very healthy-looking female spirit, draped in the conventional white winding sheet, put in an appearance from the cabinet, and began cavorting about the room. Among those present was a young man and his wife. After the disturbing element was eliminated the believers resumed their

Gibbs's Chicago Record,

Since the recent trial and conviction of ex-Councilman E. A. Gibbs on a charge of obtaining property by pretenses it has come out that Gibbs had a very unsavory record in Chicago, where he resided before he came to California.

A gentleman who formerly knew Gibbs in Chicago said yesterday that Gibbs's reputation was well known in Globs's reputation was well known in that city as a sharp trickster, but that so far as he knew he always managed to keep out of jail. The gentleman in question left Chicago before Gibbs did and heard nothing more of him until he met him in Los Angeles, when Gibbs recalled the Chicago acquaintance.

Duped by Their Imagination

Irish Times.]

An amusing story, demonstrating the power of imagination, comes from an English cathedral town. For many years half a dozen devout old ladies have been in the habit of going, in fine weather or in foul, to the early morning service in the cold minster. Recently it was decided to warm the church, and the old ladies, with one voice, protested against the innovation. "We shall be suffocated," they declared. "We shall be carried out fainting." One morning when they arrived for their devotions they found half a dozen stoves set up in different nooks and corners of the cathedral. In the course of the service, therefore, three of the old ladies fainted. "We knew how it would be," they afterward said to the dean. But the dean confounded them by assuring them that the new stoves had never been lighted. [Irish Times.]

condition at present than ever before.

C. H. Bremer, G.S., responded to the toast, "Progress of American Forestry," and soon convinced his hearers that he is well up on the subject, and is thoroughly fitted for the important office he holds.

BORDER TROUBLES

Denuty Marshal Jenkins Arrives from Sar Diego with Three Prisoners.
Deputy United States Marshal Jenk ins arrived from San Diego yesterday morning with three prisoners, José Yorba, Vasquez and a man named Yorba, Burns, under arrest, charged with hav-ing resisted a United States officer. Vasquez's head was bandaged and he appeared to be pretty badly used up. The story of the arrest is as follows:

Gillis is a deputy customhouse officer, ap-pointed by Collector Berry to look after the affairs of the United States along the Mexiact of getting the colts in, Burns, McCar-thy's book-keeper, and Gillis got into a act of getting the colts in, Burns, McCarthy's book keeper, and Gillis got into a quarrel.

The end of all this business was that Gillis came to Los Angeles and swore out a warrant against the three men above mentioned and United States Deputy Marshal Jenkins went down to make the arrests.

Mr. Jenkins took Gillis along as a guide. It was night when they reached McCarthy's place, so Mr. Jenkins says, and they learned that Vasquez was asleep in the barn. Jenkins directed Gillis to stand at the door and direct any one who came out to stand and remain under command of the United States Marshal; he went toward the house of the McCarthys to rouse McCarthy and have him deliver up the men. During Jenkins's absence Vasquez heard a noise outside the barn, and, thinking it was some horses, got up and lighted his lantern, opened the barn door and went out. He was confronted on the outside, so Mr. Jenkins said, by Gillis, who exclaimed: "You are the man I want," and proceeded at once to beat Vasquez over the head with a revolver. Vasquez ran away and hid himself in the barn, but when Jenkins returned he was called out. He was profusely bleeding, but was bandaged up and taken to San Diego, where it was found that his skull was cracked,

Quite a number of Los Angeles people risited the Whittier Reform Scho terday, where exercises were held in onor of Washington's birthday.

First on the programme was a drill between Co. A and Co. B. Next was a battalion drill. After the drill the children marched into the chapel, which was soon crowded. The children sang the "Star-Spangled Banner and "Amer-ica," and brief addresses were made by Hon. T. E. Gibbon of Los Angeles, Hon. J. C. Lynch of San Bernardino and Gen. J. R. Matthews of Los Angeles. Gen. E. P. Johnson then announced that the judges had awarded the prize to Co. A. Father MacDonnell then pre-sented the beautiful silk flag to Co. A. With three cheers for the Star-Spangled Banner the exercises closed. The people were then conducted through the buildings, and at 5:45 the train re-turned to Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES. Feb. 22, 1892.

Washington's birthday was very generally observed by wholesale merchants of this city as a holiday. Most of the commission men kept their places of business closed throughout the day. A few were open during a part of the day, but there was little doing.

The best authorities in Southern California commend these lands for the raising of Lemons. One syndicate is arranging to plant 1000 acres in Oranges and Lemons, one-half each.

The Pacific Clay Manufacturing Company's vitrified sewer and water-pipe works the largest on this coast—are located here. Also the Porphyry Paving Company, the Standard Fertilizing Company, and two pottery works. This is the shipping point for the famous Temescal tin mine plant. Lugo Wins the Twenty-mile Race.

Exciting Games at the Tennis

What the Y.M.C.A. Has Been Doing the Past Year.

A Successful Holiday- Everybody Takes Day Off-Local Items of Interest -Personal Mention and Brevities.

[Branch office, No. 50 East Colorado street, where news, adver isements and orders for THE TIMES are received.]

Judged from a purely technical stand point the twenty-mile race at the Gentle-man's Driving Park yesterday afternoon could hardly be considered satisfactory. The riders were V. Lugo and R. Corona. Each man had five horses and a change of norse was made at the end of every mile. The horses, however, with one or two exceptions, didn't develop much speed (one refused to go at all.) and the riders at times seemed to forget they were in a race. But the race was won in 54 minutes and some seconds, which is not bad time for covering a score of miles on horseback, and point the twenty-mile race at the Gentle covering a score of miles on horseback, and some seconds, which is not bad time for covering a score of miles on horseback, and as the finish was exciting the spectators generally went away pleased.

Judged from a holiday standpoint the afternoon was a success. There was a good-sized crowd present, and everybody was in a good humor, prepared to make the best of everything no matter what happened. The twenty-mile race began about 3 o'clock. The riders displayed much skill in changing mounts, and this feature of the race was what interested the spectators most. One lap one would be ahead and the next the other would lead. Neither gained any advantage until Corona was given a gray broncho that positively refused to move. This secured a lead of half a mile for Lugo, and it was nearly the last mile before Corona could close the gap. The last two laps were prettily contested, but Humming Bird brought Lugo in a few lengths ahead of his plucky opponent.

An exciting (f) burro race followed, and the winner and second were favored with the proceeds of a small purse. The Lugo brothers then gave an exhibition of lassoing horses and dogs, and were generously applauded for their skill, after which the people dispersed.

The gate receipts were satisfactory. The Driving Association will come in for a share of the proceeds.

CAWSTON AND WALLACE THE WINNERS. CAWSTON AND WALLACE THE WINNERS.

One of the most interesting tennis tournaments that has ever taken place in Pasadena was that held yesterday on the club court on Wainut street. The events wisely had been limited to men's singles. This kept the interest from lagging and brought the affair to a close before it had lasted long enough to become thresome. The attendance was unusually large, not only Pasadena being represented, but many of the neighboring towns. The entries included some of the best players of this section of the State, and the brilliant work of the contestants frequently elicited great enthusiasm.

Lunch was served at 1 o'clock through the courtesy of some of the lady members of the club.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

The City Council Still Struggling With the Water Rates

A Vigorous Protest on the Part of Con sumers Against Meter Rates-Why They Were Adopted - News Notes and Personals.

[Branch office, No. 713 State street, where news, advertisements and orders for The Times are received.]

The struggle with the qu rates is still agitating the people, and the Common Council is striving to solve the question. There seems to be no question in regard to continuing the charges for families by the month; but the contention is over-charges by the 1000 gallons. In summer many of those who have large lawns have their water running the whole night; in the morning the water would be overflowing and in the streets. The waste of water by such careless people compelled the water company to put in meters and declare its intention of charging the offenders by meter measurement. At the end of the month there was great agitation among their consumers, where bills ran from $18 to $52 per month. Now their consumers are urging that meter rates be cut down at least one-half.

The question of insufficiency of water is families by the month; but the contention are urging that meter rates be cut down at least one-half.

The question of insufficiency of water is unreasonably agitated, for it is certain that water is in abundance, that the company is financially able to develop it to its fullest capacity by building reservoirs of greater capacity and developing the water fountains that nature has begun. If greater quantities of water are required to sprinkle streets in the summer, the De la Guerra system can be used exclusively for sprinkling, and if that proves insufficient surely the supply from the ocean is inexhaustible, for it is used for sprinkling streets in many large cities.

All Colton was hurrying to and fro excitedly yesterday directing people to the fair pavilion and assisting to get exhibits in place for the grand opening last night, and truly the place has been transformed into a bower of beauty. Everything has been covered with bunting and evergreens and all is arranged in a most attractive manner. The Colton Packing Company deserves the thanks of the whole people for the generous manner in which it has dealt with them, not only in giving the free use of the buildings for the fair, but for alterations made at its own expense and the material assistance given in every way. The general office of the building is the ticket office for the fair. Adjoining this are three small rooms given the association for the use of its officers. The, large room opening from the street is the assembly room, in one end of which is a large stage. Turning to the left on entering one enters, the main room, in which the citrus fruits are displayed. The north section of this room is occupied by the very large display of Riverside. Next south of this is the Highland table; then Redlands. To the east of Redlands is the Water Company's miniature of its source of water supply. South of the Redlands display are the exhibits of stone, marble, minerals, wines and peanuts. Next south of these are the exhibits of stone, marble, minerals, wines and peanuts. The opening exercises occurred last evening in the assembly hall, it being filled on this occasion. The introductory remarks were made by L. M. Holt, president of the association.

were made by L. M. Holt, president of the association.

Will A. Harris of San Bernardino was the first orator of the evening, and he opened up his volley of wit with a reference to his being chosen, he being an attorney, rather than a newspaper man or a representative of any other profession upon the occasion of the celebration of Washington's birthday, the day upon which the beauty of truth is held up for the admiration of a patriotic public. He also spoke of the oldstyle Eastern farmer and his life of drudgery as compared with the life of luxury and ease of the California orchardist. Mr. Harris is acknowledged the orator of San Bernardino county, and upon this occasion he sustained his reputation. The brief address was sparkling with wit and humor throughout.

occasion he sustained his reputation. The brief address was sparkling with wit and humor throughout.

A. C. Fish was next introduced, and gave a very thoughtful and apparently carefully worked-up address. He dwelt at length on the Nicaragua Canal and the interest st has for fruit-growers. He said that they should see that the present bill before Congress in the interest of the canal should be passed. He asserted that when the canal shall be finished refrigerator cars can be loaded at our seaports, a distance of twenty-five miles away, and landed in the markets of Europe, at a cost for freight of but 25 cents per box. This would make a profit from saving of freight alone 70 cents per box, or add to the income of the average orange grove about $300 per acre. The freight would be decreased by five times and the market increased by five times. By the United States taking hold of this matter we will prevent the governments of Europe from gaining here what they have been trying to get for 100 years. The address was illustrated by charts and maps. The speaker also dwelt upon the subject of the World's Fair, and urged that every effort be made to put a fine exhibit at Chicago at that time. He read an extract from the Chicago Inter Ocean of January 11, containing an interview with State Senator A. F. Jones of Butte county, in which he said that Butte county was an orange-growing county equal to any in the State, and that they would no doubt make an effort to prove this at the World's Fair. Southern California must be more thoroughly aroused to the necessity of exerting herself for the exhibition in Chicago in 1893. Mr. Fish showed a box of oranges from the World's Fair orange trees now herself for the exhibition in Chicago in 1893. Mr. Fish showed a box of oranges from the World's Fair orange trees now growing in boxes of soil, and two of the treese with their fruit upon them.

All parts of the country are fully represented by orange and other exhibits, representing all industries! The Southern Pacific and Santa Fé railroads have arranged for low price excursion tickets from Los

The citizens were much surprised to see a dummy figure of a man suspended from the center of the McComas Block on Second and Main streets with the following inscription printed in large letters: "King of 5000." The inscription is supposed to refer to the president of the City Council, Rolph. When Rolph was elected some of his friends told it as a joke that he had written to his people in the old country that he had been elected king over 5000 people. The matter is very much deplored by the city's best people, and it is generally supposed the matter was done in a joke. The City Marshal said of the matter: "You can say to THE TIMES that the City Marsha is a high-license man, but that he is always in favor of enforcing the law, and if the guilty parties can be found they will be ar rested at once." RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

That Can of Dynamite Was Gasoline After All.

No Wonder the Railroad Objects to Gasoline Stoves.

Marcus Pollasky is Growing Weary of Fresno City.

Arizona - United States Railroad Commissioner Arrives-General and Local Gossip,

As a sensation, the report of the alleged attempt to blow up a Southern Pacific passenger train at Poso the other day was a dismai fizzle. It was not dynamite at all that was in the can, despite the report of sensational correspondents. The theory of the railroad people here, as published in THE TIMES, was the correct one-that the explosive was nothing more or less than a can of coal oil or gasoline which had been accoal oil or gasoline which had been accidentally dropped upon the track, where it was struck by the engine of the passenger train and ignited by the coals in the fire-box. Detectives who went to the scene to work up a case against the supposed would-be trainwreckers returned as soon as possible and either maintained a mysterious silence or said there was nothing in the case. Now there comes a press discase. Now there comes a press dis-patch from Bakersfield, near which place the incident occurred, saying that "investigations regarding the explosion last Friday night on the passenger train show that a gasoline stove was thrown out of the caboose of a freight train that had preceded the passenger. It lay on the track until the passenger train came along, which struck it and caused the explosion."

GASOLINE AND OIL STOVES. Several months ago a circular was is-sued by the Southern Pacific Company to trainmen saying that owing to fre-quent accidents, and the great damage from fire, the use of gasoline stoves by from fire, the use of gasoline stoves by crews of freight trains would be prohibited. As the trainmen running on freights have much use for portable appliances for cooking their own meals the company proposed to permit them to use oil stoves in place of the discarded gasoline affairs, offering to supply the new cness at actual cost in San Evancias. It appears that this expression is appears that this expression is the second of the same control of the same contr Francisco. It appears that this ex-change had not resulted in putting all the gasoline stoves out of use on the trains, if it is true that the alleged attempt to blow up a passenger train at Poso was caused in the manner related by the Bakersfield dispatch.

POLLASKY'S MOUNTAIN ROAD. Marcus Pollasky, the Napoleon of Marcus Pollasky, the Napoleon of Pacific Coast railroad building, now threatens to sell his road, the San Joaquin Valley, to the highest bidder, as a result of his trouble with the Fresno people over the promised aid in cash and land. Although Mr. Pollasky has protested that he owns the mountain road all by himself and the Southern Pacific is not back of him, the evident destiny of the little line is to be absorbed by the great company. of the party. As was stated sometime ago in this paper an important piece of work is about to begin on the Southern Pacific at Ochoa, a short distance east of Ben-son, Ariz. This section of road has been subject to numerous and expensive washouts, and it has been decided to rebuild about eight miles of track on a higher level. The material is nearly all on the ground and the work will com-mence immediately. It will take about six months' time and cost about $500,-

Following the example of the Vanderbilt lines, the Pennsylvania has concluded to abolish its through sleeping car service between San Francisco and New York. General Agent William Be Dell explains that the reason for this was that passengers leaving New York for California preferred to travel on the limited trains, and, as the through for California preferred to travel on the limited trains, and, as the through sleeping cars were not attached to these trains, the number of berths taken was very small. The system has been given a fair trial, has been found to be unprofitable and not so popular as it would seem it should be, and it has, therefore, gone the way of the Golden Gate special and other fancy schemes of overland travel.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE ADJUTANT BIRD.

A Sacred Scavenger Preserved by Legal

Enactment, [Longman's Magazine.]

"During the months that the adjutant lives in Calcutta it is interesting to watch him. He appoints himself chief scavenger of a certain house or houses and has first choice of the contents of the dust-bins, which each householder is required to deposit outside his gate at daybreak, till the conservancy carts remove them. The adjutant's operations may be more easily imagined than described, while the pariah dogs of the quarter and a bevy of attendant erows look on till his lordship is satisfied with the bonnes bouches that he picks out with his sharp beak, tosses into the air and swallows until his stomach becomes so full that he is obliged to take a little walk round to let matters settle themselves. I regret that I have been recently deprived of a story about the voracity of adjutants that had been believed by me for many years. I had been told that Mr. R. has seen an adjutant walk quietly along a wall to a sleeping cat, which it pierced with its tant walk quietly along a wall to a sleeping cat, which it pierced with its beak, tossed up in the air and caught in its mouth.

"But I recently met Mr. R., and he tells me that he did not see the adjutant swallow the cat, but that his friend, Mr. S., said that he had seen an adjutant pick up and swallow a live kitten. Now that is a very different thing, and is more likely to be true than the story about the cat. For a kitten may be about the same size as a rat, and I have often seen the adju-tants catch and swallow live rats. At the stables of the house of a friend of mine the native servants used almost every night to catch rats in traps. When the morning came the men used to carry the traps out on the open maidaun, at-tended by three or four adjutants, who very well knew what treat was in store for them. With our binoculars we could see from the home. mine the native servants used almost for them. With our binoculars we could see from the house the poor rats let loose and dash off at their best pace toward the stables. But a grim adju-tant, with his long strides and out-stretched wings, soon overtook the rat, tossed him in the air, and swallowed tossed him in the air, and swallowed him. Occasionally a very smart rat would double under the leading adjutant's legs; but the rat had little chance of escape, for if it evaded one pursuer it only ran into the mouth of another. "The adjutant may be called a sacred bird, but as this epithet might be misunderstood as if it applied to Hindoo mythology I must explain that he is understood as if it applied to Hindoo mythology, I must explain that he is consecrated to municipal duty, and is sanctified by the protection of the municipal law. Any one who kills an adjutant in Calcutta is punishable by a fine of a gold mohur, or 32s. I never found this law in the statute book any more than I ever saw that fabulous coin, the gold mohur in the original gold. But gold mohur, in its original gold. But there is no English magistrate Calcutta who would hesitate to impose a fine of a gold mohur on any one convicted of killing an adjutant. One of my old contemporaries in the old college of Fort William was so fined, although he had killed the adjutant in his father's garden, and his father was one of the judges of the chief court of justice. There used to be a tradition that the British soldiers in the barracks at Fort William once blew up an adjutant by inducing it to swallow a marrow-bone in which there was a charge of gunpowder and a slow-burning fuse, but I hardly believe it.

"A similar, but perfectly true story, was, however, within my own cognizance, and it occurred at the Chinsurah ance, and it occurred at the Chinsurah barracks when the Twenty-ninth Regiment was quartered there. The soldiers, after their dinner, got two marrow-bones and tied them together with a stout string about twenty yards long. The marrow-bones were then thrown out separately to two expectant adjutants. One bird seized and swallowed one bone and the other lowed one bone and the other bird caught and got outside (as the Yankees say) of the other bone. The two birds then flew up toward their The two birds then flew up toward their usual perches on the barrack roof, but as they flew apart the string tightened, and, as they pulled against one another and neither would part with his bone, they finally came flopping to the ground, to the great edification of the soldiers. When the two birds were on the ground there was a severe tug-of-war between them, until at last the string broke and each of them flew of string broke and each of them flew off triumphantly to digest its bone and the yards of string attached to it at its leis-

Sympathy from Arizona,
[Phoenix Herald.]
Phoenix sincerely sympathizes with San Diego in her attempts to have the Pacific Mail steamers touch at that port as per contract with the Government.
That once accomplished the future will soon establish new lines of commerce and malls, for from no point could Cen-tral or South American malls reach the great centers of business and Govern-ment in the United States so quickly as great centers of business and Government in the United States so quickly as by way of San Diego. Nor would commerce find a more economical route. It is but a matter of a short time when roads will make communication direct between the harbor of San Diego and all the great centers of business in the Mississippi Valley and on the Atlantic coast, and then most of the trade with the west coast of the continent southward will go through the port of San Diego, and that means the rapid growth of that place and the southwest contiguous thereto. The landing of the South American mails at San Diego would set them down nearly three days earlier in Washington and other Eastern cities than when they are landed in San Francisco, a matter of no small importance to both the country and the southern counties on the west coast. Phosnix wants to see San Diego get everything she wants; in fact, Phosnix wants to see the whole of Southern California make even greater haste in her development than she is doing. Every step forward of Southern California makes Central Arizona of more and more importance and makes our rapid development that much more certain.

Another Woman's Life Saved by Police Officer Dunn. Police Officer Dunn, who is stationed at the Main and Spring street junction, one of the most dangerous points in the city, is entitled to the banner as the champion life-saver of the force. There is a great deal of travel at this junction, and the difficulties are increased from the fact that it is also the terminus of the Temple street cable road, so that the officer on duty at this point has to keep his eyes open. Twice during the past two weeks has Officer Dunn rescued women from in front of the cable dummy, and yesterday morn-ing he got a woman and her child out of the way just in time to save them, receiving quite a severe bump himself in doing so. The woman, leading her child by the hand, started across the street. The officer motioned to her to street. The officer motioned to her to stop, as a cable train was approaching, but she paid no attention whatever to his signals, and was just in the act of stepping on the track as the officer made a running jump and pulled her out of the way. The woman was so badly frightened that she almost fainted, and it was several minutes before she was able to proceed on her way. able to proceed on her way.

After suffering for years with stomach trouble I was at last induced to try Dr. Wong Him, of No. 59 Upper Main street, Los Angeles. He examined me and pronounced my trouble tumor in the stomach. After two months' treatment, during which time I felt greatly relieved and benefited, he pronounced me entirely cured, and from that time to the present, which is four months, I have not felt the least return of my old trouble. I am able to eat many things which formerly would distress me very much. Therefore I feel that I can do nothing else than to recommend the doctor to all who can be induced to try him. DEATH! People's Store! On Prices.

February 23, 1892.

The past week has brought us lots of new goods in every department of the house. Superior classes of merchandise which we have only handled in small quantities, we have elaborated on in every detail. Our experience with the better class of goods in the past six months has been so complimentary that we have been induced to go into it to its fullest extent. As our ratio of profit is uniform, you will find all classes of goods sold in like proportion. As far as prices are concerned you will always find us under any house in town, and if, perchance, it should happen that we are not, we will consider it a kindness to be informed by our patrons, and will make our prices even lower than any quotations mentioned. Those of our patrons who remember our domestic department in the center sisle of ourstore, and the difficulty experienced in reaching these counters, owing to the large number of purchasers to be served, and the limited space, will find more accommodation and a larger stock in the new quarters, formerly occupied by our dress goods department. It is the height of our ambition, now that the dress goods and silk stocks are moved to the center aisies, to line these counters with as eager and expectant patrons purchasing silks and dress goods as were formerly wont to occupy the same space buying cotton fabrics. It requires time, but, with the inducements that we hold out, it must eventually come. We shall offer a line of 46 inch plaid wool dress goods in gray effects. You will find them to be the cheapest merchandise ever sold by any establishment in the known world. Mind the width, one yard and a quarter, and the price will be Cloak and Suit Company,

This is an item which should call out every lady in Los Angeles that has any wants in the way of dress goods for 25 cents per yard. As we are desirous of having this go as far as possible, and only having a limited quantity, we must restrict the purchase to eight yards for any one purchaser. not old, chestnutty and

You all know what the French all-wool Challie is, and you know the price is just as staple as it is on a calico. There is less money in handling these goods at the regular prices, 65 and 75 cents per yard, than there is in selling cotton fiannels. We will place them on sale Monday at

In colored and figured India silks we are selling a line of 34-inch at 48c. We do not want to confuse these goods with the quality that is being sold at 374c, and which will not hold a thread. The latter is the cheapest made. We won't have it in our house. In purchasing silks, no matter whether they are ours or others, always try the strength of the material and you will find these cheap silks are nothing but tissue paper. The silk we offer you is a grade that was sold at 58c, and we warrant these goods to give wear and satisfaction. In selling our silks, dress goods, or any fabric in the house, we do so with an implied guarantee that they will give wear and satisfaction to the purchaser, otherwise we stand ready at any time to make it good.

At 36c, and at 88c, we sell you some of the

At 74c and at 85c we sell you some of the handsomest printed India silks that you have ever seen, and certainly the best value for the money ever offered in Los Angeles. At 98ca line of sublime printed India silks. We have heretofore declined to sell them at $1.54, because actual comparison with anything in this town has proven them to be 28c per yard cheaper than the closest competition. A number of patrons inform us that they can buy a similar quality at the same price. To be lower than the lowest we have marked them at 98c.

We would advise our friends that at 98c this is the cheapest piece of silk we have in our stock. We are offering specially a line of colored surahs of sublime quality at 50c per yard. We have all the new shades and tell you candidly that we cannot replace them when these are gone under 75c per yard.

Our special sale on black dress silks, all different weaves, at 75c will continue during the week as long as we have the goods. We can emphasize the fact that there never has at any time in the mercantile history of this town, at any sale, for any case, under any circumstances, been merchandise such as we have mentioned above quoted at these prices.

A line of handsome printed cotton Chevrons. These are also imitations of fine French dress goods. When made up it would be a difficult matter to tell the difference between them and a fine all-wool dress goods. This line should command 25c per yard and we have marked them to sell at

Some very handsome styles in fine French sateens as well as new material called wash slik. When made up it requires almost an expert to discern the difference between this material and the realsilk. These goods ought never to leave the store even at a special sale under 25c, but they will be sold if you come early Monday morning at 18c. A line of black satin striped cotton dress goods; a most handsome material. One you cannot resist purchasing if you want any-thing in black cotton material. These goods would be low priced at 40c. We will let them go at

In our dress gingham department we are thowing a line of newest spring creations hat were purchased by us to sell at 12%c, and not intended to be opened until the middle of March; but, to illustrate to you low cheap we can sell goods, they will be in sale at 8%0

A new line of shirtings—the finest mate-al that we have ever laid upon our coun-r, and you know that we have shown some-ne shirting effects, but we have never-al any to equal these at double the rice. They come in light, medium and ark colors, the designs being different om any heretofore shown. Price will be

10 and 15 cts.

We are headquarters for bleached and brown muslins, Canton fiannels, apron checks, ginghams, etc., selling them at re-tail at the same price we do at wholesale. tail at the same price we do at wholesale.

The items we have quoted in the two foregoing classes, being the principal ones in our stores, will, if you have any interest, bring you in for inspection. When you are here, walk around the store and see what inducements low prices will cause you to invest. As you walk down the aisle on the left-hand side, our ribbon stock first claims your notice. You will find all silk ribbons in gross grains with satin edge, the new effects in watered, some handsome novelty ribbons for millinery purposes and fancy work.

Alttile further on you come to our stock of watered, some handsome novelty ribbons for millinery purposes and fancy work.

A little further on you come to our stock of veilings and laces. The most immense variety of each, and the prices at which we sell them will impress you. Most merchants get even on notions and laces on the shortcomings of their other stocks. Ours is sold as close as domestica. Here we are showing all the new things in cotton and silk: Point d'Iriande, Guipure d'Genee, Chantilly and Point d'Esprit laces in narrow, wide and medium founcings. The latest novelties arriving by express daily. This is going to be a large face season. All sorts of materials, both cotton and woolen, are to be trimmed and garnished with laces. Our trimming department this season will be the largest, handsomest and most compete that we have ever shown.

On the opposite side you will find our drug department, where we sell all sorts of perfumery, powders, patent medicines, in short, everything that is kept in a drug store not necessary to the compounding of prescriptions, at cui prices. The fact that we have shall sell these goods has caused us trouble in procurins them at all times. Still we have a full line or everything in stock today and sell them at our famous cut prices.

Nextyou go to our hosiery department, liere you can find anythine in silk liste on.

The next department is our ladies' underwear and corsets, in charge of a lady who thoroughly understands her business. From 50c to $5 you can purchase a corset and rest assured that at the price it cannot be equaled elsewhere.

In ladies' underwear you can buy vests from 8%c to as high as you choose to pay. We are selling a wool vest, however, for 50c, price of which earlier in the season was $\frac{1}{2}$. We still have a few handsome cloaks that are fur trimmed. They sold earlier in the season at from $10 to $25. The $10 and under have been marked $\frac{1}{2}$, and those under $25 have been marked at $10.

have been market 85, and those under $25 have been marked at $10.

Our advance stock of spring millinery is all in. Our flowers, trimmings, ornaments and hats are here. We do not intend to have our opening until do not intend to have our opening until said in. Our flowers are said at month, but we have all these goods ready to said and on a word in reference to what we intend on a word in reference to what we intend on in millinery. Considering the volume that we use here as well as in San Francisco, we have determined to sell our millinery this season at the same prices that the jobbers sell the retailers. You can readily understand when we tell you that in San Francisco and here we sell more millinery than all other millinery stores in Los Angeles combined. All we ask is to give us a look, then go anywhere you please, and if our merchandise is not cheaper of course you will buy elsewhere. This is to be a season of smallshapes, with little conical crowns, and a good deal of chip is used with fancy lace effects and braids. It is to be a very large lace and flower year, and colors are to be worn exclusively. It is as it should be, as black is certainly too somber and dark for our semi-tropical and flowery country.

Everybody wears shoes. It is a matter of the order of the store of the contract of the contr another pair or refunding the money.

We have the best line of Ladies' Shoes that can be manufactured at prices $1.68, $1.75, $2.90 and $3.00. The best evidence of this is that hundreds of people come back to us and ask for the identical shoe, and if we happen to be sold out of the size, they prefer waiting if possible until they arrive, We are here to do business and to sell you the best merchandise for the least money. We

Curtis & Wheelers's fine Ladies' Shoes from $3,25 to $6.50. Our line of Children's and Boys' Shoes is unsurpassed for quality and price. Another advantage you have in buying footwear from us is that you have a guarantee of the dura-bility of every pair of shoes purchased, no matter at what price.

In Men's Straw Hats we have received from 40 to 50 cases which we have stored away and will not open until the middle of next month. and it is urgent for us to dispose of our fur and wool stock before placing straw goods in our fixtures. To this end we are making a sweeping sale.

We have a line of Fur Felt Hats manufac-tured for us and bearing our imprint a hat worth $3.00 for $1.50.

Another line of Hats worth $4.25 we have out to $2.25. These comprise the finest grades of French fur that are made. In Boys' Wool Hats and Fur Crushes, as well as Men's Wool Hats, you can buy a hat now for 49c that sold as high as $1.00.

In men's furnishing goods we are making gigantic reductions preparing for our summer trade and cutting prices on fall stuff at less than the price to manufacture, preferring to put our capital in merchandise during the summer months that may pay us a profit instead of packing goods and investing it in dead merchandise. Men's Scarlet All-Wool Underwear, cost $1.50 to make, sells at $2.00, we have cut to

98c. Men's Indigo Blue Mixed Underwear goods that sold at $1.00 we have cut to

If you can find anything in the State to match the prices quoted in the above three items then we are not in it on underwear. Items then we are not in it on underwear.

In Men's White Laundried Shirts we call your attention to three items. One at 50c, one at 75c, one at $1.00. If you can buy anywhere, from any person, any of these three shirts within 55c of the price we quote, then we do not ask your patronage. Our 50c shirt is as well laundried as any shirt you pay $2.50 for. They are perfect fitters and according to the quality are made of the nnest shirt makers' muslins and linens.

We still continue the sale of our neckwear or 25c for the 50c line, 121/c for the 25c line. In Boys' Waists we are selling all-wool dannel waists at 75c. The lowest quotation over made was $1.00.

our great reduction sale of Boys' Clothing still going on. We are selling $2.50 suits for $1.00; $3.50 suits for $2.50. There is not clothing house in this town or elsewhere who pretends to be in competition with us on those prices. The $1.00 line is a Union Cassimere. The $3.50 line are all-wool goods. You will find a similar reduction in all our better class goods.

We have a very large stock and are any ous to reduce it just one-half. During this nouth we are selling merchandles for the lake of selling it. We are candid with you shen we tell you that profit is not considered, and in this remark we mean just what you say.
